 2. The president can disagree with the decision of the Council of Ministers, caution them, and counsel them
- A. 1 only
B. 2 only
C. Both 1 and 2
D. Neither 1 nor 2

Answer: C

In the computation of the value, the population of the State figures in a significant way. In other words, the population of the country is a crucial factor in the election of the President, which means the people's presence in the process of electing the President is very much visible. This gives a wider base to the President than a mere vote by the legislators on the basis of one member, one vote. This also gives the President a greater moral authority. So, the Indian President is not and cannot be a mere rubber stamp.

He does not directly exercise the executive authority of the Union, but he can disagree with the decision of the Council of Ministers, caution them, and counsel them, and so on.
